

BUSH HERITAGE
AUSTRALIA

South Australia Arid Rangelands Ecologist – Bush Heritage Australia

Location: South Australia – Adelaide or Regional South Australia

Position basis: Full time 1.0FTE, ongoing

The South Australia (SA) Arid Rangelands Ecologist will have significant input into the development and implementation of the science and ecology programs across Bush Heritage's South Australia Arid Rangelands Priority Landscape. In addition, with input from other key roles, this position will have primary carriage of Bush Heritage's South Australian research (including reintroductions), survey and monitoring programs. A key element of this is a major reintroduction program which the incumbent will be responsible for, including the development and delivery of the associated translocation plan. It is expected that the SA Arid-Rangelands Ecologist will also be available to support Bush Heritage partnerships in the conservation, pastoral, minerals, and Indigenous Protected Area sectors across South Australia.

We are looking for an experienced landscape ecologist preferably with sound knowledge of the political, ecological and social issues in South Australia and experience in the design and implementation of reintroduction programs.

Further information regarding this opportunity is available at:

<http://www.bushheritage.org.au/about/employment/arid-rangelands-ecologist>

Applications close 21 August 2017