

A world class education in your community

The Institute of Koorie Education offers university qualifications to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander students through our Community Based Delivery approach to learning. This unique study method provides you the flexibility to gain access to higher education while living in your home community and maintaining family and work obligations. Our programs are centred around on-campus study blocks, combined with off-campus community based delivery which is supported by local tutors in your community. During on-campus study blocks, students stay at our exclusively Indigenous student residences, where all meals and return flights are government supported.

You can choose to study from a number of courses in the areas of Arts, Law, Health, Education, Land and Sea Country Management and Indigenous Research. The Institute also provides higher degrees by research including the Masters by Research and Doctor of Philosophy (PhD).

To support your study, a range of scholarships for Indigenous students are available, including research specific scholarships.

The Institute of Koorie Education proudly offers two culturally unique, Indigenous focused postgraduate qualifications; the Graduate Diploma of Land and Sea Country Management and the Graduate Diploma of Indigenous Research.

Land and Sea Country Management

Do you want to apply Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Knowledges to caring for Country?

With a distinct cultural perspective on Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Knowledges, investigate how protecting cultural heritage can be successfully incorporated into traditional caring for Country practices in contemporary land management.

Indigenous Research

Are you interested in a qualification that is a pathway to a Masters by Research or PhD by Research?

Explore how Indigenous knowledge can reconfigure general systems of thought. This unique qualification culminates in a comprehensive thesis that builds research capabilities and capacity.
