

Australia's
Global University

Indigenous Studies Honours 2019

Applications close 30 November 2018

Immerse yourself in Indigenous Studies with coursework and a research thesis, while you develop a wide range of skills you can apply in both an academic and professional career.

With this stand-alone one year full-time degree you will generate new knowledge and understanding, and design, develop and complete a significant research project. This Honours program may also provide a pathway into a PhD.

Find out more about our Indigenous Studies Honours program:
nuragili.unsw.edu.au/indigenousstudieshonoursprogram

Honours Information session at Nura Gili - Monday 8 October 2018
(Check website for details)

PhD by Research in Indigenous Studies

Scholarship applications close 12 October 2018

We are committed to creating greater awareness and understanding of Indigenous societies, culture and history. Through our PhD, you will gain research training in Indigenous studies and research methodologies, in fields of research including education, history, politics and policy, and cultural and museum studies.

Find out more about our PhD by Research in Indigenous Studies:
nuragili.unsw.edu.au/phd

For further information
Call Nura Gili on 02 9385 3805
or come into the centre for yarn

CRICOS Provider Code 00098G