Indigenous Liaison Officer

Location: Canberra

Salary: $82,898 to $95,181

- Are you confident in working with HR management with an ability to communicate sensitively and effectively with Aboriginal and/or Torres Strait Islander people
- Can you build, educate and sustain effective diverse networks?
- Do you have the ability to develop and implement workplace diversity strategies?

As an Indigenous Liaison Officer in our, ATO People business area, you will work across the ATO, providing general HR support and people management advice to both Indigenous and non-Indigenous employees and managers. You will contribute to the design and delivery of effective engagement strategies to attract Indigenous job seekers into ATO employment and subsequently their retention and professional development.

Workplace Diversity is committed to promoting a positive inclusive workplace culture where all staff are respected and valued. The ATO recognises the importance of embracing and valuing the unique qualities, attributes, skills and experience all employees bring to the workplace.

The Workplace Diversity team develops and implements internal Human Resource policies and strategies to support a workforce that reflects the diversity of the Australian community. Our strategies increase the representation of Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander employees, cultural awareness support and represent a variety of diverse groups.
