

Associate Lecturer - Bachelor of International Public Health

Job no: 496215

Work type: Fixed term / Full time

Location: Sydney, NSW

Categories: Associate Lecturer

The Organisation

UNSW Medicine is a national leader in learning, teaching and research, with close affiliations to a number of Australia's finest hospitals, research institutes and health care organisations. With a strong presence at UNSW Kensington campus, the faculty have staff and students in teaching hospitals in Sydney as well as regional and rural areas of NSW including Albury/Wodonga, Wagga Wagga, Coffs Harbour and Port Macquarie.

The School of Public Health and Community Medicine (SPHCM) is internationally recognised as a leader in Public Health and Health Services Research. Our School research focuses on Emerging Threats, Health Systems, and Social and Commercial Determinants of Health, prioritising both translation and impact. The School also has strong associations with research centres and institutes throughout UNSW Medicine.

About the role

- Full-time, Fixed-Term 2 Year position
- Academic Level A: $75,069 - $100, 090 (plus 17% superannuation and leave loading)

The Bachelor of International Public Health (BIPH) is a fully online undergraduate degree delivered under the Plus Alliance. The Associate Lecturer will contribute to curriculum development and teaching in the BIPH, as well as other areas of postgraduate and undergraduate teaching. The Associate Lecturer will be an early-career researcher and will be expected to actively advance their research profile through publications in peer reviewed journals, applications for competitive funding, higher degree student supervision and contributions to academic administrative functions in the SPHCM.

Please refer to the attached job description for a detailed list of responsibilities.

About the successful applicant

We are looking for an Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander person to contribute to teaching of Indigenous Health in the BIPH as well as other courses within the program. You will have a minimum of a Masters in Public Health or Master of International Public Health or related discipline with a demonstrated experience in curriculum development and teaching at a tertiary level. Ideally, you will also have familiarity with teaching in an online environment, supporting students to learn collaboratively in this context and an emerging track record in peer-reviewed publications and some grant success. In addition, you will have strong communication, organisation and presentation skills, and the ability to work independently in a goal-directed manner as well as collaboratively with internal and external stakeholders.

The successful applicant will have public health teaching and/or research strength in one or more of the following areas:

- Indigenous Health
- Epidemiology
- Biostatistics
- Environmental Health
- Policy and Programs
- International Public Health

Please apply online - applications will not be accepted if sent to the contact listed. Please address the Selection Criteria in the attached Position Description on our website.

Contact

Dr Holly Seale - School of Public Health and Community Medicine
E: h.seale@unsw.edu.au

Applications close: 11pm, Sunday 6th October 2019

Find out more about working at UNSW at <https://med.unsw.edu.au/>

UNSW is an equal opportunity employer committed to diversity.

This position is open to Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander applicants only. UNSW has obtained an exemption under section 126 of the Anti-Discrimination Act 1977 (NSW) to designate and recruit professional and academic positions for Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander persons only, to fulfil UNSW's goal of a representative workforce rate.

UNSW
WEB LINK APPLY