Lecturer, Journalism and Communication

Reference: 108496

Work type: Continuing, full time position based at either the Nathan or Gold Coast campus.

About Griffith University

At Griffith University we believe in, strive for and celebrate the remarkable.

We are known for our high impact research, outstanding student experience, our commitment to social justice and our welcoming environment. We're proud of our remarkable achievements, of our people and their passion for making a positive difference. Together we contribute to the development of knowledge and learning in an attractive environment which values excellence, equity, diversity, and innovation.

The School of Humanities, Languages and Social Science offers expertise across a diverse array of disciplines to shape the social, political and cultural future of the world. Its degrees teach students to think both critically and creatively, to innovate for change and communicate for influence. With a strong emphasis on industry placements, its degrees provide a springboard for success and a unique skill set to future-proof their career.

Through both teaching and research, the School of Humanities, Languages and Social Science creates critical thinkers, creators, innovators and thought leaders – who harness the power of their ideas, and other people's, to change the world. This commitment to developing creative ideas has been recognised by the QS World University Rankings which placed Griffith in the Top 200 worldwide for Communication and Media Studies.

The opportunity

The position offers an exciting opportunity to be part of the School's new Bachelor of Communication and Journalism and to contribute to its design and implementation. Importantly, the focus of both the Communication and Journalism staff and the new degree program is a commitment to the potential of communication and journalism to impact and deliver positive social and environmental change.

This is a continuing, full time position based at either the Nathan or Gold Coast campus.
