Working at the ABC

The ABC is the nation's most trusted and independent source of Australian conversations, culture, and stories. With over 4,000 employees from diverse backgrounds, located across over 50 locations around Australia and overseas, we are proud to create, curate and deliver high-quality programming that informs, educates and entertains Australian communities.

The ABC's a great place to work; we provide various opportunities for Indigenous staff, including attending the national Indigenous staff conference, activities during NAIDOC week, regular networking events and mentoring support. You'll have a friendly and supportive environment to learn and grow in, with a vibrant, dynamic and cohesive team and a manager who will help you with any questions and give you regular opportunities to talk about your progress. You'll also have access to a network of Indigenous staff and support from the ABC's Indigenous Employment Manager.

About the Role

We are looking for a Field Reporter to report right from the field and produce engaging content for use across a variety of platforms.

- You will contribute to the day-to-day output of the station in various ways including field reporting, presenting, producing and creating rich online content for a local and national audience
- Identify compelling content that could travel to other areas across the ABC and promote our content using social media and other platforms to increase audience engagement
- You will also actively engage in community activities on national projects

About You

Are you a highly motivated and multi-skilled content creator? Are you ready to experience one of Australia's most famous outback towns, report from The Rock, gather yarns in Yuendumu, and burrow into the Beanie Festival? Step this way!

We are looking for an enthusiastic Field Reporter who can bring a perspective of culturally diverse communities and contribute to stories and conversations that reflect the broader Australian diversity landscape, to join our dedicated and experienced local team.

- You must be able to create engaging cross-media content for the local audience; and come equipped with spark, enthusiasm and an abundance of ideas
- You will enjoy working in a team and have a record as a positive team member
- You'll love radio but also understand how to use and engage diverse demographics with social media and online content
