

Youth Justice Worker (Custodial)

Applications are now open for full-time youth justice workers at the Malmsbury Youth Justice Precinct, a custodial facility housing young men who are on remand or have been sentenced to a youth order.

You will need maturity, life experience and resilience to succeed as a youth justice worker.

You will be responsible for maintaining the safety and security of the facility and managing the challenging behaviours of the vulnerable and potentially hostile young people in our custody.

- No experience is required, six weeks paid training will be provided.
- We hire from a range of trades and industries including construction, automotive, farming, manufacturing, retail and customer service.
- Base salary of $52,493, although entry-level staff earn on average up to $76,650 after penalty rates and overtime.

We encourage you to attend a free information session to meet with the General Manager of the facility, current youth justice custodial staff and the recruitment team to gain a better understanding of a career in youth justice:

- Bendigo: 11am - midday, Saturday 14 September
- Sunbury: 6:30pm - 7.30pm, Wednesday 25 September
