

NSW National Parks & Wildlife Service is hiring!

We're looking for deadly mob to work on Dharawal, Dharug and Gundungurra Country's

Multiple roles based on beautiful Dharawal, Dharug and Gundungurra Country's, working alongside a team of field staff in various national parks and reserves, including a significant koala population and their habitat in south-west Sydney.

As part of the National Parks and Wildlife Service, you'll be walking and working on Country—helping care for the land, take care of the park infrastructure and facilities, yarning with community, and keeping culture strong. You'll be part of a solid, supportive team that values connection to Country, respects cultural knowledge, and have opportunities to work with other Aboriginal staff in the Greater Sydney region.

RECRUITMENT YARN

We are holding a Recruitment Yarn at Bow Bowling Neighbourhood Centre, 10 Carnarvon Road, Bow Bowling (near Campbelltown), Saturday 28 June 2025 from 10am to midday. The yarn will include information on working with NPWS, the roles and provide assistance with applying. The yarn will be followed by lunch for attendees.

Register your interest to Gonzalo.Murialdo@environment.nsw.gov.au or join us on the day.

Field Officers assist with a diverse range of activities relating to maintenance and improvement to park assets within NPWS parks and reserves. You will be guided by the senior field staff, in your day-to-day work including pest and weed control, routine maintenance, construction and installation of new assets and conservation works. You will operate and maintain plant and equipment, participate in fire management activities, respond to visitor enquiries and assist with compliance activities as required.

Your passion for your community and environment, coupled with a strong attention to detail and safety will be key to your success in this role. You will have the ability to think on your feet and enjoy working in a dynamic team and at times be able to work alone or with minimal supervision. Your fitness and enthusiasm will enable you to thrive and succeed in this diverse and dynamic role.
