Where you'll will be working

The Cancer Institute NSW is the NSW Government's cancer control agency, established to lessen the impact of cancer across the state. Working at the Cancer Institute NSW means joining a team of committed staff who are proud to be a part of the Institute's purpose of overseeing and accelerating the effectiveness of cancer control in NSW.

The Cancer Institute NSW is a collaborative working environment that encourages diversity and inclusion in how we work together. The Aboriginal team at the Institute is an integral part of enabling equity, inclusion and advocacy to improve the cancer outcomes for Aboriginal people in NSW.

What you'll be doing

In this role you will be required to develop, plan, implement and manage the delivery of program objectives to improve cancer outcomes of people from Aboriginal communities. You will have demonstrated experience in building and maintaining relationships with key Aboriginal community, health and cancer stakeholders.

Essential to this role will be your proven experience engaging and consulting with internal and external stakeholders in a complex and fast-paced environment. You will be a team player with a can-do attitude, with strong verbal and written communication skills.

You will be expected to identify project opportunities aligned to the portfolio, and manage all aspects of project implementation, including drafting of documentation, planning, development, evaluation, stakeholder consultation, monitoring of project plans, and coordinating resources.
