About the role

In this role you will have the opportunity to utilise your many clinical skills to focus on preventative, self-empowering health strategies for your clients, their families and broader community. No day is ever the same, as you can provide a range of services including, clinical assessment, health coaching, case co-ordination, health screening, 48 hour follow-up phone support and yarning to Aboriginal people and their community. This promotes health literacy and guides in improvement in health outcomes. This can happen in homes, community, clinics, coffee shops or telehealth. The approach is client centred, flexible and non-judgmental.

About you

The ICCAP team are seeking an enthusiastic individual who has a passion about working within the Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander community to actively influence positive health outcomes and great communication skills. You will have a positive can do attitude and love a challenge with an innovative out of the box thinker. A background in chronic diseases or care coordination/navigation is highly regarded.

This is a targeted Aboriginal Position. This position is identified for Aboriginal people and exemption is claimed under 14d of the Anti-Discrimination Act 1977 (NSW). Aboriginal applicants must demonstrate Aboriginality in addition to addressing the selection criteria.
