

Director Education & Engagement

Do you want your work to make a difference for NSW?

Together, we create thriving environments, communities and economies.

- Enable increased water compliance with your leadership of Education and Engagement for the Natural Resources Access Regulator
- Permanent full-time, flexible NSW location available (however weekly travel to Sydney would be required)
- Senior Executive Band 1, TRP from $212,388 (including superannuation), commensurate with experience

As Director Education and Engagement at NRAR, you will lead our engagement and education presence with NSW water users. You will design and deliver strategic programs to optimise regulatory outcomes by providing high-quality and targeted education and behaviour change initiatives. You will also be responsible for leading our engagement with industry, community and intergovernmental agencies by building on and developing our existing stakeholder engagement framework.

About You

Your relationship management experience and expertise will be highly valued as you build productive relationships with senior industry stakeholders and peak bodies, growing strategic partnerships to support the implementation and delivery of our targeted education programs.

To be successful in this role, you will have a proven track record of designing and implementing education programs that translate complex government policy into easily accessible information for the community. When it comes to following water management rules, we know most people want to do the right thing. It will be your role to help them understand their obligations and what they need to do to comply.

Critical to your success in the role will be your ability to negotiate outcomes while influencing and encouraging stakeholders to share NRAR's educational materials to amplify the reach of our strategic messaging.

Essential Requirements

- Degree qualification in relevant discipline (Business, Public Policy)
- Proven success leading and managing engagement and education initiatives and programs
