Working at the ABC

The ABC is the nation's most trusted and independent source of Australian conversations, culture, and stories. With more than 4,000 employees from diverse backgrounds across more than 50 locations around Australia and overseas, we are proud to create, curate and deliver high-quality content that informs, educates and entertains Australian communities.

The ABC's a great place to work; we provide various opportunities for Indigenous staff, including attending the national Indigenous staff conference, activities during NAIDOC week, regular networking events and mentoring support.

You'll have a friendly and supportive environment to learn and grow in, with a vibrant, dynamic and cohesive team and a manager who will help you with any questions and give you regular opportunities to talk about your progress. You'll also have access to a network of Indigenous staff and support from the ABC's Lead, Indigenous Employment and Diversity.

About the Role

This is a newly created role, where you will be working as part of the NSW Newsroom's expanding Local Communities reporting team. You will be researching, writing and preparing original content that tells the stories of Indigenous and culturally and linguistically diverse communities across Sydney and NSW. You will share these stories across multiple platforms, including digital, social media, TV and radio.

About You

You're an established journalist who is passionate about sharing stories that relate to the Indigenous and diverse communities of Sydney. You have a good eye for visualising these stories and bringing them to life in video or pictures.

You have extensive contacts within the Indigenous community around Sydney and NSW, and a solid reputation as someone who is passionate about Indigenous affairs.

For further information on this position please contact Mark Davies, NSW News Editor on (02) 8333 2705.

We respectfully request that Recruitment Agencies do not submit applications for this position.
