Allied Health Aboriginal Cadetship (Allied Health Assistant)

An exciting opportunity exists for an enthusiastic Allied Health Assistant to join the team at Northern Health.

The role:

As part of the Aboriginal Nursing and Allied Health Cadetship Program 2021, the Allied Health Aboriginal Cadetship offers paid employment experience and cultural and clinical support to Aboriginal students undertaking studies within an Allied Health discipline currently represented in the workforce of Northern Health.

The successful applicant will work in an Allied Health Assistant role to enhance the development of their skills and knowledge in health and their discipline to assist with the successful completion of their studies. Cadets will work under the supervision of clinicians to observe and provide appropriate clinical care across an array of specialities.

The role is a casual position where you may be required to travel and work across the various Northern Health Campuses. Allocation of shifts will be flexible and will work around the study requirements of the successful candidate.

About you:

- In accordance with the Equal Opportunity Act (2010), this is an Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Identified position; applicants must identify as Aboriginal or Torres Strait Islander and provide evidence of passing grades in all subjects completed thus far within a full time Bachelor or Masters Allied Health degree
- Proven ability to work in a team
- Demonstrated effective verbal and written communication skills
- A willingness to participate in service delivery activities and demonstrate a commitment to continued quality improvement
- Commitment to ongoing professional development

We can offer:

- Health and Wellbeing programs, including our new 'Thrive' program
- Flexibility in the workplace and extra leave options and support
- An inclusive and culturally safe space
- Access to salary packaging, EAP, our online library.
