

Senior Advanced Health Worker

Child and Youth Mental Health Service,
Children's Health Queensland Hospital and Health Service, Brisbane

The position of Senior Advanced Health Worker will provide high level Indigenous mental health input to service delivery as a member of a multi-disciplinary team to optimise social and emotional outcomes for indigenous children and young people and their families who present with severe and complex mental health problems in the forensic system, including those young people in Brisbane Youth Detention Centre (BYDC).

For this position it is a genuine occupational requirement that it be filled by an Aboriginal person or a Torres Strait Islander person as permitted by the Anti-Discrimination Act (sections 25,104 and 105).

Are you passionate about outcomes for children and young people across Queensland? We're committed to providing life-changing healthcare for children and young people for a healthier tomorrow.

About the Child and Youth Mental Health Service

The Child and Youth Mental Health Service (CYMHS) at Children's Health Queensland specialises in helping infants, children and young people up to the age of 18 years who have complex mental health needs.

CYMHS works collaboratively and in a recovery-oriented way with infants, children and young people and their families. This means we recognise and help build on individual and family strengths for better health and wellbeing. By working together, we support children, young people and families to get back on track to reach their optimal mental health.

The Forensic Adolescent Mental Health Alcohol and Other Drugs Program (FAMHAODP) is a specialised forensic service within Child and Youth Mental Health Service (CYMHS). FAMHAODP provides specialised assessments and interventions to children and young people with serious and complex mental health needs who are engaging in violent, sexualised and other significant offending behaviours.
