Aboriginal Affairs NSW works alongside Aboriginal people and communities to make sure their voices are heard and their interests represented in government. By leading and influencing policy change in government, we support the long-term social, cultural and economic aspirations of Aboriginal people in NSW. Our agency works closely with Aboriginal communities and our staffing reflects the diversity of these communities. Over 50 percent of our staff, including senior leadership, identify as Aboriginal. We are also committed to providing a culturally safe and supportive workplace with flexible working arrangements for all staff. To learn more about our work visit aboriginalaffairs.nsw.gov.au.

About the role

The role is responsible for leading whole-of-government and inter-government negotiations to ensure alignment, integration and coordination of policies, reforms and approaches, to achieve the strategic intent of the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Reform.

Developing and maintaining effective relationships with key stakeholders in State and Commonwealth governments, as well as with Aboriginal, industry and non-government peak bodies, to identify barriers to, and innovative opportunities for, overcoming disadvantage in Aboriginal communities. The Director will ensure that appropriate governance and project management arrangements minimise risks to the achievement of outcomes and objectives of the Aboriginal Cultural Heritage Reform project.
